Your website probably uses lots of static files. Image, Javascript and CSS files are usually static files that could just as easily be served from another site or CDN. Therefore, this plugin replaces any links in the `wp-content` and `wp-includes` directories (except for PHP files) on your site with the URL you provide below. That way you can either copy all the static content to a dedicated host or mirror the files to a CDN by origin pull.

WARNING: Test some static urls e.g., <https://sabguru.com/wp-includes/js/jquery/jquery-migrate.js> to ensure your CDN service is fully working before saving changes.

You can define different CDN URLs for each site on a multisite network.

☐ Enable CDN Support

Site URL

The URL of your site. No trailing `/` please.

Off-site URL

The new URL to be used in place of <https://www.sabguru.com> for rewriting. No trailing `/` please.

Example: <https://sabguru.com/wp-includes/js/jquery/jquery-migrate.js>.

Include directories

Directories to include in static file matching. Use a comma as the delimiter. Default is `wp-content`, `wp-includes`, which will be enforced if this field is left empty.

Exclude if substring

Excludes something from being rewritten if one of the above strings is found in the URL. Use a comma as the delimiter like this, `.php`, `.flv`, `.do`, and always include `.php` (default).

Additional CNAMEs

These CNAMEs will be used in place of <https://www.sabguru.com> for rewriting (in addition to the off-site URL above). Use a comma as the delimiter. For pages with
